

FOUR ARRAIGNED IN SUPREME COURT

Four of the defendants who were indicted by the May grand jury, who reported to Judge Nichols in the supreme court on Friday morning, were arraigned before the judge when court reconvened at two o'clock this afternoon. The grand jury reported eight indictments, four of which were sealed, and recommended the dismissal of four cases.

Cases Dismissed.
The cases in which no indictments were found and which were dismissed by the grand jury were as follows:

Matthew Freeman, a negro, charged with assaulting another negro during a brawl at Rosa's brickyard at East Kingston.

Sam Pettick, charged with burglary. He was found in the house of one of the timekeepers employed on the Shandaken tunnel construction near Allabon. Pettick was employed in tunnel construction as a laborer and the timekeeper did not desire to prosecute him.

John Truglio, charged with abduction, in having taken a young woman from Gardner to Poughkeepsie but concerning which the girl herself told several conflicting stories.

Louis Verdelli, charged with violation of section 1897 of the penal law in carrying a concealed weapon without first obtaining a license.

Four Defendants Arraigned.

Defendants were arraigned by District Attorney Traver as follows: Matthew Blanshan, charged with burglary in the third degree, in entering the dwelling house of Mrs. May Charles in the downtown section of Kingston several weeks ago. Blanshan pleaded guilty and will be sentenced later.

Wallace Payne, charged with assault in the second degree, with intent to commit a rape. Payne was arrested recently after an exciting chase through Lindsey's woods where he had tried to entice several children, one of whom he placed on his bicycle and rode away. Payne said he had no lawyer, no funds and at the suggestion of District Attorney Traver, a plea of not guilty was entered for him. Counsel will be assigned later. Bail was fixed at $4,000.

Allie Vetro, charged with burglary in the third degree, in breaking into the community house at Saugerties on May 9, where he was found and arrested by Chief of Police Arthur Richter.

Pelino pleaded guilty and will be sentenced later.

Sam Mignano, charged with having a revolver in his possession in violation of section 1897 of the penal law, on July 10, 1918. Mignano not being a citizen of the United States. Mignano was convicted of manslaughter in the first degree in Ulster county court and took an appeal to the appellate division of the supreme court which recently granted him a new trial on questions of law. During the trial Mignano admitted the shooting, which he said he had done in self-defense and told of having had the revolver in his possession for some time although he was not a citizen. Mignano pleaded not guilty and the matter was held open until Mr. Canfield can appear in court for him.

The four sealed indictments were sent to the county court.

BISHOP MANNING AT ST. JOHN'S

The Rev. Mr. Knapp, instituted as Minister-Special Service in Evening With Patriotic Organizations Present.

St. John's Episcopal Church was crowded to the doors on Sunday morning with a congregation met to extend welcome to the bishop of the diocese, the Right Rev. William T. Manning, who wholeheartedly won the sincere and warm regard of all present at the especially interesting service.

Bishop Manning first instituted the Rev. Edward M. H. Knapp, B. D., minister of St. John's Church. This is a service which has not taken place at St. John's Church in a very long time, and proved to be exceedingly impressive. The keys of the church were delivered by the senior warden, C. V. A. Decker, and the congregation felt, as do all congregations where the service of institution is observed, that they have a minister in an intimate and real sense. The bishop's sermon, which was brief, had as its theme, the worship of God, particularly in the church; as reflected from the service of institution, with an appeal for the loyal support of the rector. Again the bishop impressed the need of the worship of God in every life and as the impelling force in the lives of those about to be confirmed. After the sermon a class of thirteen candidates—an excellent number with the rector so recently come to the parish—received the laying on of hands by the bishop, in the rite of confirmation.

At the close of the service, Bishop Manning met all attending the service in the vestibule of the church, extending to each some gracious word and a warm shake of the hand. In the evening there was again a special service at St. John's Church attended by delegates from the Auxiliary of the Sons of Veterans, delegates from the G. A. R. veterans and from the Sons and Daughters of Liberty. The service was largely attended and was impressive, the rector preaching an inspiring sermon.

On Thursday of this week, there will be a celebration of the holy communion at the church at 10 a. m.

He was knocked unconscious and picked up and carried in an automobile to the office of a doctor a short distance away and there given attention and revived. This happened in the fifth inning when the score was 4 to 2 in favor of the Staatsburgh team. A pitcher from Poughkeepsie took Taylor's place and the Red Hooks scored 14 runs off his delivery. When the game ended the total score was 16 to 8 in the Red Hooks' favor. Outside of a black and blue muscle which is sore Taylor is none the worse for the accident.

HOW TROOPER BALKED RAID

Cases of Diamond and Ruggi May Go To U. S. Court—Talk of Charges Against Interfering Trooper.

The Newburgh News says:

Following the arrest of two prohibition agents connected with the Albany office in Staatsburgh last Friday, a motion has been made by Elmer Lemon, assistant United States District Attorney, of Newburgh, to have the cases sent to the United States District Court.

The agents, Hugh Diamond and George Ruggi, went into a roadhouse conducted by James Horan at Staatsburgh to investigate. They told the proprietor they wished to examine the bar and then began to yell. A state trooper, who was evidently upstairs, arrived upon the scene and told the agents to get out of the place and it is alleged used abusive language.

The agents left the saloon and made ready to drive away in their car when the proprietor and the state trooper followed them outside. It is alleged the proprietor grabbed one of the agents by the neck. The state trooper asked Horan if he wished to make charges and the proprietor saying he did, the agents were placed under arrest. They were arrested on three charges: Third degree assault for taking hold of the saloon keeper, second charge, illegally taking possession of the saloon; third, interfering with an officer.

The agents asked the name of the trooper and the latter refused to give it. The agents then said they would call the matter to the attention of his superior officer. The agents were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Burke and were held in $2,500 bail. The agents secured counsel, Joseph McCabe of Poughkeepsie, who went their bonds. McCabe made application for change from the justice's court to the grand jury on the ground that a fair trial could not be had owing to the alleged fact the justice and the village was prejudiced. Judge Arnold granted the order. Mr. Lemon was in Staatsburgh on Friday to make motion for having the cases transferred to the United States district court on the ground that federal employees are entitled to a trial in such a court. He indicated that an investigation would be made with the result that charges may be brought against the state trooper for interfering with prohibition agents in the discharge of their duties.

GOUGERS ONLY SOLD HIGH PRICED CARNATIONS

Although wholesale dealers boosted the price of white carnations last week about 300 per cent and more in order to take advantage of Mothers' Day which was Sunday, and retailers in New York and other cities raised the price to $4 to $6 a dozen, Valentin Burgevin, Inc., of this city kept the price at the same retail at the same rate charged for some time, namely $1.50 a dozen. The demand was large and the blooms never nicer. David Burgevin in charge of the sales department at Main and Fair street, says there was no scarcity of carnations and therefore no reason to boost the price as was done in many cities by the dealers. It being only uncalled for profiteering because of the extra demand.

COMEDY AT SAHLER'S PRODUCTIVE OF MIRTH.

Friday evening at the Dr. C. O. Sahler Sanitarium the auditorium was well filled when the members of the colony there produced a one-act play, called "Wurzel-Flummery," a comedy by the well-known English playwright, A. A. Milne. This play presents a very humorous situation in which fifty thousand pounds are bequeathed to each of two members of the house of parliament by the will of a crusty, rich, old pessimist on condition that they change their names to the ridiculous sounding, mouth filling one of Wurzel-Flummery. The palm for acting was easily carried off by Miss Marsh, who played the wife of the elder representative in the house of parliament. The latter character was played in a light comedy style by Mr. Stussy. The younger member was portrayed by Mr. Flatow, who left nothing to be desired as the lover of young Miss Crawshaw, which in turn was played very sweetly by Miss Kalkoff. The actor-solicitor impersonated by Thayer Lenington was a scream in making up as well as in word and action. If laughter is a token of enjoyment, the effect of the performance may be judged by the convulsions that shook the house. The cast:

Robert Crawshaw, M. P., Charles S. Stussy; Richard Meriton, M. P., Jacob Flatow; Denis Clifton, Thayer Penington; Mrs. Crawshaw, Miss Mabel Marsh; Viola Crawshaw, Miss Minnie Kalkoff; maid, Miss Pauline Trachtman.

In the seventh inning one more run was scored by the Kingston boys. The score by innings: All Stars—0 0 3 1 1 0 0—10; Rosendale—2 1 0 1 0 1 0—5.

$450 VERDICT FOR LASHER

At the opening of Supreme court this afternoon, the jury in the case of Norvin R. Lasher against Dr. Mortimer B. Downer, which was concluded and sent to the jury on Friday afternoon, reported to Judge Nichols that they found a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $450.

The action was brought by Mr. Lasher to recover damages which he claimed had been sustained by the use of sulphur mixed with shingle chips and kerosene when Dr. Downer fumigated his house at Woodstock last September after its occupancy by a family which had as one of its members a patient who was suffering from tuberculosis. Dr. Downer claimed that sulphur was a proper fumigating agent and that its mixture with kerosene and chips in order to effect ignition was proper. Surrogate George F. Kautman tried the case for the plaintiff; Fowler & Loughran tried the case for the plaintiff; represented Dr. Downer.

FRUIT PROSPECTS FAIR IN HUDSON VALLEY SECTION.

No official estimates of the probable fruit crop of this state have been made, but according to John B. Shepard, of the U. S. bureau of markets and crop estimates, there are still enough buds left to permit a good crop of most fruits if the weather conditions are favorable between now and harvest. One report from Ulster county states that no damage to grapes is yet apparent there. In the Hudson valley injury to the buds of some varieties of apples ranges as high as 50 per cent in some localities but most sections have enough buds left alive to permit a good yield of most varieties, except Baldwins.

CARS COLLIDE ON PLANK ROAD

Three Persons Cut and Bruised. Mrs. Phillips Directing Removal of Fenders Which Plunged Her Neck in Dangerous Position.

With head hanging down and in momentary danger of decapitation, Mrs. William C. Phillips of Albany avenue directed the work which rescued her from her perilous position after the car in which she was riding with her husband had locked with a car owned and driven by Charles Floyd of Brown avenue and then went partly in the ditch along side the Kingston-West Hurley road near the Cold Spring House about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips, who occupy the Emanuel Metzger residence on Albany avenue, were on their way to their summer cottage near Woodstock in their Overland car when they met Mr. Floyd who was driving a new Buick car, and who was coming toward Kingston. It is said a third car going toward West Hurley was abreast of the Overland and the Buick when they came together.

The impact of the collision threw Mrs. Phillips out of the side of the car and her head was caught between the fenders of the two cars as they locked and then skidded. The work of rescue was carried on by a number of motorists who were coming from both directions. They found Mrs. Phillips unable to get her head loose from between the two cars and they were fearful at first that a slip of the car would either break Mrs. Phillips' neck or decapitate her. The situation was explained to her, but she retained her presence of mind.

With her body hanging out of the side of the car, head downward, she directed the rescuers in their work, telling them to move the car first one way for an inch or so and then in another direction, each move that was made being followed by an attempt to extricate herself, until finally the Overland was lifted clear of the Buick sufficiently for her to pull herself clear. On account of the position of the two cars it was impossible for anyone to aid Mrs. Phillips in this delicate operation which she carried on herself. After she had regained her seat in the wrecked car, she complained of faintness but did not faint.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Phillips and Mr. Floyd received various cuts about their faces and hands which bled profusely. Mrs. Phillips was also thought to have sustained internal injuries. The three were hurried to the Kingston city hospital where they were attended by Dr. Daniel Connelly and Dr. Frank Johnston. Mr. Phillips and Mr. Floyd returned to their homes later but Mrs. Phillips remained at the hospital where her condition is favorable for speedy recovery. It is not believed now that she sustained any internal injuries.

Both cars were wrecked. They were brought to Kingston by the wrecking car from Doc Smith's garage, where the Overland car will be repaired, the Buick being turned over to the Forsyth & Davis garage for repairs.

While photographs of the cars were being made by Lou Merrill of The Pennington Studio, a motor truck of Walter S. Darling of this city locked wheels with a motor truck of B. Boomer of West Hurley and added to the excitement of the crowd of motorists which had collected.

Mr. Phillips is a well known author.

$15,000 FOR CITY HOSPITAL

Doctors of Staff Report Contributions for New Addition to Institution Are Being Made Daily—Any One May Contribute.

The doctors of the staff of the Kingston City Hospital reported today that over $15,000 had so far been contributed for the new addition to be built at the institution. The physicians have been making a quiet canvass for contributions, and if there are any who have not been asked to contribute, and desire to do so, they can call up their physician or the hospital.

It is planned to add another story containing twenty private rooms to the wings in front of the present building. The hospital needs a number of new rooms as the institution is always filled and it has been difficult to care for all those who seek admission for treatment.

Six Months to Make, Never See Panama and Cost Big Sums.

S. Cohen's Sons, 331 Wall street, have arranged a very interesting hat exhibit of the various straws, including the different fibres that are used in making genuine Panama hats.
They show the fibre in its original lengths and also the hat in various processes of manufacture.

All Panama hats are woven from the fibre by the natives of Central and South America. Peru and Guatemala today furnish the best grades of Panama, while of course the Monte Christo is still the finest hat in the world and retails as high as $500.

When a hat is started in the making, it is begun in the center, which is called the button. (An experienced Panama grader can tell by the button just where the hat came from as in the various countries of the south each locality has a peculiar way of weaving the center of the hat.) The strands are interwoven under water, which makes them very pliable and strong.

The hat is shown in the window in the different stages of weaving, commencing from the button or center of the hat, which is about the size of a quarter, and increasing in the various widths until the crown is completed. The ends are never cut off until the hat is ready to be rebbed in the American fashion.

Original photographs are also in the window, one showing a typical native hat, in Peru where the straw is dried and the veins of the leaves huddled up; another is that of some natives at work blocking the hats in a very primitive way; and still another shows an American importer overseeing the clipping of the ends which means so much to a Panama hat.

There are also exhibited two of the largest Panama hats in the world—the brim from tip to tip measures 48 inches—together with some very small Panama hats which are used only for comparison. The same care is exercised in making these small hats as in a regular hat to be sold. Some colored weaves are also exhibited, showing the handwork of the natives of the south. These hats have been put on exhibition in nearly every city of the United States.

While these hats have always been called Panama—very few people know that they have never seen Panama. The name applied years ago because they were originally all shipped to Panama before exporting to the United States in their rough state and are put in the finished product by the American manufacturers. New York city, no doubt, finishes 90 per cent of the Panamas that are worn in the United States.

These hats are in the original color and have a creamy look because they have never been bleached. In the southern countries they do not bleach the hats but wear them natural. In this country they go through a chemical process of bleaching to suit the American taste. If a hat is not properly bleached it will lose its value but when a hat is properly bleached it always retains its new color. A good many people in buying hats, after they have had them a little while, find that the hat is turning in color and some are disappointed.
Nothing at all is wrong with the hat, simply that the bleach has given out and the hat is resuming its original color.

The Panama is a very strong hat
and will stand all kind of wear.
Many people have been known to wear a Panama hat as long as 15
and 20 years, by having the hats re-cleaned from year to year and not giving them to unscrupulous and inexperienced cleaners. In some parts of the United States, especially in the southern states, a great many men and women have hats that they have had for years that cost them from 25 to 200 dollars. When in hard luck they often pawn them for face value.

HIGH SCHOOL NINE GETS A SETBACK

General Lack of Pep Shown in Saturday Game Won By Poughkeepsie
13-4—Newburgh Next.

What started out as a first class
pitching duel between Lester Caunitz and Baker Saturday at Riverview Park, Poughkeepsie, was converted into a Shakespearean revival with the Maroon and White presenting "The Comedy of Errors" with an all-star cast; the game ended with an utter rout for the locals with Poughkeepsie winning 13 to 4.

It was not Caunitz's fault that the Kingston lads did not win. During the game the locals scored but three hits. It is the opinion of those who saw the game at Glens Falls last week that Baker is not of the same mould as Dabber, the up-state whirlwind; but as a whole, as far as teamwork is concerned, the Poughkeepsie aggregation is far superior.
By defeating Newburgh Academy
the same day that Kingston defeated Glens Falls, and by winning Saturday's game, the Poughkeepsians have already gained two legs on the Central Hudson Valley, all of which goes to say that Kingston will have to do some steady loping to retain the championship honors.

Before the start of the game the sun took up its quarters behind some cumulus clouds, and did not show itself until the first of the second. Whether the Kingstonians regarded it as a good omen or not they scored when Vogt crossed the plate after McLane's fortunate hit over the shortstop's head. The hit in itself should never have been productive of a run, but due to the fact that the Poughkeepsie shortstop marked against himself two consecutive errors the lanky Kingstonian whirled homeward. The third inning was a one, two, three for each pitcher. Then in the fourth Coffey took his place at bat and chopped off a two-bagger. Ca-men succeeded him and drove him in. Gunn, the next man, was placed out of the running by a fast play from the pitcher to first base. Whiston erred. Underhill went to first and Anwater struck out. Another error by Whiston proved fatal
when Caman loped home.

In the fifth inning Poughkeepsie scored seven runs, the first tally being the result of Caunitz's error. Off in left field is a border of high shade trees, to befuddle the fielder. According to the ground rules no man who knocks into this clump of lumber is allowed more than two bases. A little practice makes it easy to place flies there. Poughkeepsie took advantage of this in the fifth. Somehow the locals did not take advantage of this fact and score likewise. In the sixth three more runs were tallied by Poughkeepsie. In the seventh Caunitz struck out two men. Hill grounded to Muller who threw to Vogt and then the Kingstonians seemed to regain a little of that fighting spirit which had so long been dormant. Hoffman, Howard and Mc-Lane each brought in a run bringing the score up to 12-4. It seemed after the faint rally that something might be done to recover the long lead in the next two innings, if anything like real ball were played. If the locals were to have tied the score by the ninth the Poughkeepsians promised them an extra inning; the locals balked at the idea. In the eighth one more resulted for Poughkeepsie on Coffey's long drive into the West Woods. The locals accepted Baker's dose in the first of the ninth, and everybody went home more or less contented.

Bob Case was unable to play due to a bodily injury recently sustained, and Joey Hoffman was substituted for him. One of the distinguishing features of the game was made when Hoffman caught a long fly to the left of center field.

Next week's game will be played in Newburgh against the Newburgh Academy nine.

A notable evolution in the modernity taken place in the past century. Wash-

Electric passenger elevators, swim-drawing rooms, veranda cafes, smok-

be found on the modern steel hull that plows its foamy way across the ocean.

"They tell me you are not looking very

FROCKS FOR THE SUMMER SEASON

Styles Include Fascinating Models Worthy of Most Careful Consideration.

SIMPLE DESIGNS IN FAVOR

Plainness Promises to Be Paris Slogan for Warm Weather Wear; New Gingham, Organdies and Cottons.

It is hardly a slip from spring things into summer things. And the French couturiers have a way of slipping both of the seasons at once upon our bewildered senses, observes a fashion writer in the New York Times. Of course, there are many of their designs which can be applied to either season, but when we begin to separate the summer things—those for early summer most particularly—we find fascinating models worthy of our most careful consideration.

The French cleave always to simple designs. Nothing else has the least interest for the Parisian dressmaker. So that, naturally, we expect to find more or less plainness of design among their summer dresses, which type of frock lends itself most conspicuously to the unpretentious methods of treatment. Just the way they have of varying simplicity is a matter of constant astonishment even to expectant on-lookers. They will conceive a new way of handling gingham which is so ultra plain that the only remark we can think of to make is, "Why didn't I think of that first?" But that is the whole point. It takes the French to think of it first. That is the way their originality makes itself felt.

In the shops all sorts of new gingham and organdies and cottons of varying sorts are making their appearance and these, mixed with the silk dresses and coats which will be such conspicuous portions of the summer wardrobes, are succeeding in making the dressmaking salons look like so many bright garden spots.

It seems as though there is far more leaning toward the wearing of real summer clothes than there has been for some years. The fact is that they are made in so tailored a manner that they can be worn either in the country or in town, and for the hot days they are very much in demand by all women, no matter where they reside.

Fashioned From Two Materials.
So many of the warm weather frocks, whether they are made of silk or of cotton, are fashioned from two materials. That is, they will have either their upper half or their lower half made of one sort of fabric and the other portion made of some contrasting weave and color. These are among the most attractive of the new summer things.

Then there is one very new and popular dress that is made of either twill or silk, with the skirt and coat of matching material. Then the bodice section, which is made on extremely long-waisted lines, has a row of large buttons ranged round its lower edge and to these the skirt buttons with big buttonholes. Between the buttonholes there are loose portions of the skirt allowed to bulge out and supply the necessary fullness to the skirt. Sometimes these bodices are made of a

the quality of white pique which is stiff enough to form the necessary body to which the skirt is attached. Others of them have pongee used for the waist purpose, and either the one or the other of these materials looks very well indeed.

Taffeta is one of the materials which is used for summer dresses this season. They are not only the evening frocks, but also those, in plainer designs, for afternoon, and even for street wear. Of course, the darker colors of this silk are chosen for the two latter uses, and they are then made up most simply, but the crispness of the silk and the charm of the designs of the new frocks make them positively irresistible. Crepe dresses, of course, still hold good in a perfectly remarkable degree, but there are many places and occasions where the taffeta ones will be the very best things to be found. One always looks fresh and snappy in a frock of stiff taffeta, and if one has the figure to stand the puffiness of the designs of these dresses, then one can hardly keep from having at least one of them.

Short and Tight Sleeves.
The French designers are still—or again—using short and tight sleeves for their summer frocks. They seem to know that there is no other portion of a gown that looks so cool as the one that clings tightly about the arm and allows those long, white, bare arms to show and to be really cool. So, if you are at all inclined to want to wear short, little, close-fitting sleeves, why, then, you are privileged to go as far as you like and to design your own dresses according to your own tastes. You have the sanction of the French couturier behind you.

An excellent type of gingham dress was made from a red and white Rodier fabric in a soft, thin woolen material, but it is peculiarly well adapted to the use of gingham or chintz or ratine or any of those heavier cotton materials.

The little Brambleigh collar is somewhat in this design, changed so that it hugs more closely about the throat and then the little edging of linen, from which material the collar and cuffs are made, is carried in a strip down the entire length of the skirt. There was a black ribbon bow under the chin, and the girl wore a drooping black straw hat with red dahlias massed about the base of the crown.

The waistline of this plain little frock is placed at an entirely normal angle and the belt which holds it in place there is made of white kid to repeat the other white touches on the frock. The bodice is but slightly bloused and the sleeves are gathered a trifle at the place where they meet the flaring and turned-back cuffs.

Will Use Heavier Silks.

This season many of these suits will be made of the heavier silks. Some of them will be made of the cotton ratines. Others of them, of course, will be made from the lighter weight serges and varieties of cashmere which are now upon the market. But as for the designs of the suits they will vie with the dresses for utter simplicity. Some of the coats are boxed. Some of them are made on cape lines without any linings and some of them are little short-belted jackets with rather full peplums that flare out above the hips. There will be linen suits, of course, and some made of those cotton materials which are a combination of cotton and linen and which do not muss with nearly so much ease as those which are made from pure linen.

There is one of the belted suits made of white linen which shows a very faint dark blue stripe. There is a crossed waistcoat of printed linen or blocked linen, as they call it, and this shows both the blue and white with sprinklings of vivid orange in the design. The coat is an excellent illustration of those little ones that are belted low about the hips, and the skirt is made with just a little extra fullness at the side, where it is made to close under two or three fairly pressed plaits.

There are other suits made of ratine which show the whole bodice constructed of a piece of brightly toned chintz in the gayest of patterns. Of course this brilliant piece of pattern only shows as the coat falls apart at front, but there it does full justice to itself in creating, really, the whole decoration of the suit. This is a costume suit in its best sense, and one that will be able to serve more than one purpose through the hot summer.

WORN WITH TUXEDO SWEATER

A sport skirt of gray, rose and white striped covert, fringed at the lower edge, and worn with a gray silk tuxedo sweater and a smart little ribbon hat, completes this good looking outfit.

THE MODES OF THE SEASON

Spring Fashions Are Not Revolutionary, According to an Authority on Women's Wear.

The spring fashions are not revolutionary, declares an authority. The straight silhouette triumphs. The bouffant is permitted for young girls' dancing frocks and has not distended hips, but is wide at the hem. The tendency of the waistline is higher. Sleeves are important in all blouses, so much so that they affect the line of the silhouette. They are generally long for daytime.

Skirt lengths have increased for afternoon and evening. Black has not disappeared, but color is paramount. The vogue for beige is remarkable. Indications point to tremendous popularity for the three-piece costume, made with a coat rather than a cape. Lingerie touches and platings of every variety are repeated by almost all houses.

Kasha, repp, twill and serge lead in woolen fabrics. Crepe de chine, printed crepes, crepe roman, crepe marocain and crepe satin are the silk materials of the moment. Satin, georgette and foulard follow closely. Bright galleons are good.

Dresses of two materials combined are emphasized. Lace is conspicuous, with accent placed on fine black lace. In evening dresses, bead embroidery sometimes covers the material so entirely that it suggests a new fabric.

NEW, DEEP OVAL NECK LINE

Worth, in Latest Creation, Fills In With White Chemisette for Daytime Wear.

Most neck lines for afternoon continue the convenient and becoming batteau, but Worth has a new, deep oval, which he fills in with a white chemisette for morning or afternoon wear, and with a bit of lace or a flat band of the material of the gown for evening. When sleeves are not wide, either intrinsically or by the addition of floating wings of lace or chiffon, then they are suppressed altogether for afternoon wear, but the sleeveless models are usually hidden for outdoor wear under a matching cape or coat.

Here and there we have a long, tight sleeve for afternoon, as in a striking Lanvin model of black crepe, handed with cyclamen and blue, which has a sleeve as tight as the skin of the arm, banded above the elbow in medieval fashion with two colors. Jenny's afternoon sleeves are invariably long, whether hidden by a wrap or not.

FASHIONS IN BRIEF

Trimming that emphasizes the width of the hat is in vogue.

Waistcoats are popular, especially those of cloth, lace and fancy silk.

A combination of plaid skirt with plain coat is a good one in the new sport things.

A cape of yellow knitted silk is bound all round about with black ribbon of a dull finish.

Coats for sport wear are made without sleeves, with loose backs falling straight from the shoulders.

A set of shell pink and orchid silk pajamas has the trousers of orchid piped in pink and the jacket of pink piped in orchid.

Black satin is used to make charming house frocks this season, with colored applique work forming the trimming, or perhaps a heavy wool embroidery giving a decorative touch.

Pin Whorls of Ribbon.

Ribbon pin whorls are a marked trimming feature on soft frocks, assuming in a modified form outline of flower shapes, also a popular garnishing.

MASONS ATTEND FIRST REFORMED

Judge Clearwater Welcomes Visitors to Ancient Place of Worship Where Dr. Chamberlain Occupies Pulpit.

The services at the First Dutch Church Sunday morning attracted upon the visit of the 110 members of Jamaica Lodge, F. & A. M.; the 60 members of Troy Lodge; the members of Kingston Lodge No. 10, and of Free Masons from lodges at Middletown, Liberty, Hobart, Saugerties, Catskill, West Virginia, with a member from the grand lodge of Scotland, was a most impressive event. They all wore the Masonic insignia of the Master, Mason's apron, the officers of the various lodges wearing that of the Blue Lodge. They filled the pews bordering the central aisle of the church, the members of the church occupying the pews abutting upon the side aisle.

The Reverend Dr. W. I. Chamberlain occupied the pulpit. Dr. Chamberlain not being a Mason, Judge Clearwater, who is the right worshipful grand master of the grand lodge of the state of California, near the grand lodge of the state of New York, wearing the beautiful regalia of the grand lodge of the state of California, welcomed the visiting members to the church. He said it was a pleasure and an honor to welcome to one of the most historic churches in America many members of the most ancient secular charitable organization of the world, modern investigation had demonstrated that Masonry as a guild ante-dated the building of the temple of Solomon at Jerusalem.

The First Dutch, the Judge said, always had extended its hospitality to visitors to Kingston, whatever their station or faith. Four presidents of the United States and eight governors of the state of New York had worshipped with its congregation, and during the two hundred and sixty-three years of its existence many times had visiting Masons occupied its pews.

Singularly enough, during the anti-Masonic excitement which convulsed the state many years ago, in the graveyard surrounding the church was buried the copper plate from which were engraved the certificates of membership in Livingstone Lodge, the predecessor of Kingston Lodge, and there it remained for over sixty years. It had been exhumed, and now decorated the walls of Kingston Lodge, where undoubtedly its hearers had seen it. Thus the hospitality of the church was limitless. To him it was a felicitous coincidence to represent the church, Kingston Lodge, the grand lodge of the state of California, and the grand lodge of the state of New York upon so interesting an occasion. Still more felicitous was it to the visiting Masons that the pulpit should be occupied by one of the most distinguished divines not only of the Reformed Dutch Church, but of the American pulpit, for so the world regarded Dr. Chamberlain. As for Masonry, said Judge Clearwater, it has survived persecution, proscription, and the centuries. It will endure to the end of civilization because it is founded upon the eternal predicate of the fatherhood of God, and the brotherhood of man.

ALL STARS WON.

Defeated East Kingston on Sunday at Baseball.

The All Stars of this city traveled to East Kingston on Sunday and clashed with the ball club of that place, winning the game by a score of 11 to 9. The All Stars used Miles in the pitching box and Jordan and DeWitt behind the plate. This team has recently organized for the season and is looking for outside games for a reasonable guarantee. All teams desiring to book them should communicate with William Jordan, No. 46 Meadow street.

Paper Published for Prisoners.

The Danish prison authorities, in connection with the introduction of reforms, are considering the idea of publishing a newspaper wholly for prisoners. It is felt that prisoners returning to civil life are considerably handicapped in their lack of knowledge on current events. The paper will cover political, home, foreign, general news, and possibly have illustrations. In this connection it is interesting to note that it is the intention of the authorities to give suitable moving picture exhibitions in prisons in addition to occasional concert parties and band performances, with an idea of keeping the inmates in touch with the outside world. In Pentonville prison the governor recently began giving summaries of the week's news.

Why He Rejoiced.

"Have a smoke, fellows," said Brick Top, as he passed around the cigars to the marines in the bunkhouse. "I'm celebratin' my wooden wedding."

"What's the big idea, Red?" said the chorus. "You never told us you were married."

"I ain't," said Red. "Five years ago I asked a Jane to marry me, and she wouldn't. So I'm just celebratin' the fifth anniversary of my escape."—The Leatherneck.

The Poet.

"Your picture of the infant Hercules strangling the serpent is very good. But how did you get a model?"

"My kid gave me the idea the day he got tangled up with the hose on his mother's vacuum cleaner."—Judge.

Critic's Real Duty.

To be useful to as many as possible is the especial duty of a critic, and his utility can only be attained by rectitude and precision. He walks in a garden which is not his own; and he neither must gather the blossoms to embellish his discourse, nor break the branches to display his strength. Rather let him point to what is out of order, and help to raise what is lying on the ground.—Landon.

British Army Expedition

Saved By New Food

Almost Miraculous Romance of War and Science

A story of what is perhaps the most remarkable episode in the war was recently told in a most interesting manner in a lecture given by Dr. J. B. Rose, F.R.S., at the Royal Society.

The British troops had been trapped in the town of Ypres, Belgium, and were in a desperate straits. The only food left was a few scraps of bread and a little meat. The soldiers were dying of starvation. It was then that a miracle occurred. A supply of food was sent to the town from the rear. The soldiers were saved.

The miracle was due to the fact that the food was sent to the town by a secret route. The soldiers were saved by the new food.

The new food was a miracle. It was a food that was not only nutritious but also easy to digest. It was a food that was sent to the town by a secret route.

Mrs. John Vardeman, known on the stage as Fern Hollis, said to have been in the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York, has been arrested, with her husband, at Savannah, Ga., in connection with the theft of $500,000 in negotiable Liberty bonds from the Chase National Bank of New York. Bonds worth $400,000 were found in Vardeman's safe deposit vault in Jacksonville, Fla.

Arthur P. Chase, a former cow puncher but later guard at the Chase National Bank, confessed he mailed a package of blank paper and stole the bonds, which were being sent to a Boston bank.

The leaders of the Irish Republican faction and the Irish Free State group have made many efforts to reach an agreement that will prevent conflict between the two armed forces. The above picture shows a meeting of the rival leaders. Left to right they are: Major-General Sean McKelown, Sean Moylan, General Duffy, the Free State Commandant-in-Chief, S. Sullivan, Liam Lynch and Liam Mellows.

Peggy Hopkins Joyce, international beauty, who had romances with three millionaire husbands and for whom two men are said to have died, will not be seen on the screen in America, motion picture owners, in convention in Washington, having adopted a resolution to bar all her pictures. On landing in New York from the Mauretania Peggy denied reports she had been told officially to leave France and stay away twenty years. She brought $1,000,000 worth of jewels with her, and their examination took customs men all day. One, a ring worth $20,000, was seized, but Peggy declared duty had already been paid on it. She denied she was to wed Jack Dempsey.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

ANT LION

"The Ant Lion and I am an ant-lion. I tell that at once because any one might think I was a big lion or maybe some sort of a creature who would roar."

"I never thought that," said an alligator in a pool nearby. "Of course I came from the same part of the world as you did. I, too, was caught and brought to the zoo. I didn't mind, though. They didn't have much fun with me."

"I would have had more fun with them," said the rattlesnake from his cage. "If they had let me. But they knew how to get me without letting me get them. It seems a pity when one thinks that my fangs are about as long as that I am here a prisoner when I should have killed a few people."

"Oh well, I'm happy enough and I'll have to admit they were smart."

"Look here," said the Ant Lion. "You are saying what you will do and what you have done and what you would like to do. Now no one knows my story."

"You give me a chance to tell, who I am. I am sure the zoo creatures would be interested in knowing."

"Then if you're sure of that," said the rattlesnake, "go on with your story."

"I'll stay quite still with my story, thank you," said the Ant Lion.

"All right, try to be funny too," said the rattlesnake. "I don't mind. I feel sleeps. I won't bother to stay awake for your story as I know it anyway."

"Very well," said the ant lion. "As I don't care whether you hear it or not, I don't care in the least. There are others in the zoo who will hear it."

"Go to sleep and then you won't interrupt me," said the ant lion. "Yes, rattlesnake I'd be glad to have you go to sleep."

"Tell your story now that you have a chance," said the alligator. "And don't waste all your time talking to the rattlesnake."

"Creatures will think you haven't any story to tell, but just want to argue with the rattlesnake. Now if you don't tell your story I will tell you I went off with a number of my relatives and lived where it was very quiet and was quite the best too."

"I will tell my story at once," said the ant lion. "As I said I was an insect in fact I am an insect and will continue to be an insect as long as I live."

"I'm not even an inch long. I have pincers on the front of my body and I use these to get the sand away from my body. Then I dig and make myself a fine home and there I attract the ants."

"They come my way and look over the edges of the home I have dug myself and then they begin to crawl over the sides and then they fall down with the sand which begins to fall and they land straight in my mouth."

"I cleverly trap my enemies. That is why I have the name of ant lion. I am a king and the ants are my subjects. I am like a lion for the lion is a king and I get my prey cleverly."

"And when I have finished my meal I throw away the bones, so to speak, so that other ants won't be scared away."

"I make trails when marketing; is poor and that gets in many ants who like to travel in numbers along from one of our homes to another. They don't realize how we're trapping them."

"When I was born my mother laid her eggs (and I was one of the number) under the shade of an oak tree. It was a beautiful place. There the sand was soft and we were so comfortable there and could get plenty to eat for we could build without any trouble in the soft sand."

"There is a time when we spin cocoons when we are free and go off looking like dragon flies and with our mates enjoy life for a little and see the world and think of love and beauty."

"But then again we come back to the old life of seeking the ants and feeding upon them."

"Yes, we're the ant lions, for we're king of all beasts who hunt for ants. I feel sure. We're not beasts, of course, we're insects, but you know what I mean."

"But we're clever the way we get the ants in and we do it in such a lazy sort of way, for we plan our traps for them in such a way that they cannot but help but fall in our waiting mouths."

MORE GOOD THINGS

Egg contains about 15 per cent protein, 10 per cent fat, 1 per cent mineral salts and the rest water. It will be seen, then, that they lack carbohydrates (starches and sugar) and this must be supplied by combining with eggs the needed amount of carbohydrates to make a well balanced diet. The yolk of the egg has 32 per cent of fat while the white has none. Often the yolk of a hard-cooked egg will agree better with a young child than a whole egg cooked soft.

Stuffed Eggs.—Cut hard-cooked eggs in halves, crosswise; remove the yolks and place them in a bowl; mash and mix them with an equal amount of chicken, seasoned, and mix with salt and pepper and a little cream. A few chopped mushrooms may be added. Fill the halves of the whites with the stuffing, press them together and roll in crumbs, then fry in hot fat. A cream or tomato sauce is good with these eggs.

Apple Balls.—Cut 24 balls from apple with a French potato cutter; add two tablespoonsful of lemon juice and then add one-fourth cupful of sugar and one-half cupful of water; steam until tender, but not soft enough to lose their shape. Beat the whites of two eggs; add two tablespoonsful of powdered sugar and a few drops of vanilla. Toast six rounds of bread until well browned, dip in hot milk, then butter and pile the apple balls on each round. Cover with the meringue and brown in the oven.

French Omelet.—Scour the omelet pan with salt so that it will be perfectly smooth. Add to the hot pan one tablespoonful of butter; when melted, add the omelet. Break four eggs into a bowl and beat them just enough to mix the yolks and whites; add four tablespoonsful of warm water, tablespoonful of minced parsley and a sprinkling of pepper. Place the pan where the heat is hottest and pour in the eggs, dust lightly with salt and shake the pan to keep the omelet in motion. Lift the edges with a knife so that the center will cook; fold and turn on to a hot platter. Serve at once.

Pimento Valuable Commercially.
When in the month of May, 1492, Christopher Columbus arrived off the shores of Jamaica he recorded the fragrance of the spices borne far out to sea by the land breeze. Then as now in the month of May the air is charged with the scent of the pimento tree's blossoms. Both the leaves of the tree and its small, round, dark-colored berries are also heavily scented; the leaves contain oil of eugenol and the berries the "all spice" of commerce—forming the one truly indigenous wild product which always has been, and still is, of considerable importance.

MASONS CROWDED ROOMS OF NO. 10

Delegates From Troy and Jamaica Attend Special Communication and Banquet—Many Unable to Gain Entrance.

The special communication of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, Free and Accepted Masons, at Masonic Hall on Wall street Saturday night was the occasion of the largest gathering of members of that fraternity in this city in many years, and will be long remembered by those who were privileged to attend.

Kingston Lodge had as its guests for the evening a delegation of one hundred and ten members of Jamaica Lodge, No. 546, F. and A. M., of Jamaica, Long Island, and sixty members of Apollo Lodge, F. and A. M., of Troy, N. Y., all of whom came to Kingston by automobile.

The Jamaica visitors, headed by Worshipful Master Frank H. Thompson of Jamaica, began to arrive at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and all had arrived by 5 o'clock, at which hour Kingston Lodge opened. The visiting brethren from Jamaica were entertained over night at the Eagle Hotel and the Stuyvesant Hotel. The Troy brethren arrived early in the evening.

At 8 o'clock the visiting brethren were formally received by Kingston Lodge. They were introduced by Right Worshipful Joseph Drake and were welcomed by Worshipful Master Charles B. Everett, of Kingston Lodge. Worshipful Master Frank D. Thompson of Jamaica Lodge made a fitting response on behalf of the visiting brethren. Thereafter the third degree was conferred in due and ancient form on five candidates.

Following the regular work of the lodge, a banquet was held at which Right Worshipful Alfred D. Van Buren acted as toastmaster. Responses were made on behalf of the brethren of Jamaica Lodge by Worshipful Master Frank D. Thompson, Right Worshipful Charles A. Rider, Past Masters Edward Carman, E. Habbibnau and E. R. Thomas, and on behalf of Kingston Lodge by Past Master Philip Elting. During the banquet a number of solos were rendered and there was also community singing. The Masonic Quartet also rendered several numbers in a particularly pleasing and impressive manner.

Masonic Hall was filled to capacity for the communication, and for the banquet which followed, and more than two hundred members and visitors from nearby lodges were unable to gain admittance. Besides the visitors from Jamaica and Troy, there were also visiting delegations from Middletown, Liberty, Ellenville, Saugerties, Catskill, Hobart, Hartford, Conn.; several members from West Virginia and one from Scotland.

SUSPECT FOUR IN MILTON ROBBERY

Sunday morning Sergeant James Cunningham, of the state constabulary, was notified that the drug store of Carl Herzert on the main street of Milton had been burglarized some time during Saturday night. With Trooper Wright he went to Milton after notifying Sheriff Kolts, who with Undersheriff Tunks Hancock, also went to the scene in the afternoon to investigate. It was learned that entrance had been effected through a second story window, a ladder having been raised from the ground to reach the window.

A quantity of cigars and other goods were taken and some money but the total value of the booty had not been determined Sunday as Mr. Herzert had not completed a countercheck of his goods at that time. Today Sergeant Cunningham and Trooper Wright are at Milton making a further investigation and running down clues and expect to round up four suspects.

HERE'S JUST YOUR KIND OF PHOTOPLAY

Betty Compson

in "The Law and the Woman"

A tale of misadventure "Justice" that beauty and daring put right

For when one woman, had sent a man to prison, another through love, set out to make him free.

See her slip into the habits and haunts of the wasters she despises! See her play their reckless game, run down the lie and win!

A drama revealing the genius of Betty Compson like nothing else since "The Miracle Man."

MAUJERS NEARLY TIED IN NINTH

Taylor put in shot by Schrick When Game Appeared Safe and Brooklyn Team Made It Look Unsafe Until Last Man Was Out.

A sensational finish to an otherwise ordinary ball game furnished the big feature of the opening game at the new Kingston Fair Grounds Saturday afternoon when the Colonials defeated the Majors A. C. of Brooklyn by an 8 to 7 score. Up until two men were out in the ninth the game lacked any real excitement, but the last half minute furnished a real thrill.

With two men down in the ninth and no one on the bases, the game seemed safely in the hands of the Colonials, the score at the time being 8 to 5. The fans began leaving for the exits, but stopped when Van Buren, who was pitching, handed a free pass to Ebberts. Schrick, the first baseman of the Brooklynites, took his stand at the plate, catching hold of one of Van Buren's last ones, he sent a desperate effort to Craxan made a desperate effort to get under the sphere, but it was beyond his reach. Ebberts crossed the plate and Schrick was leaning around the base paths with what would have been the tennis rac Craxan lobbed up the ball way out in left and shot it on a line to Moore. The second baseman turned and relayed the ball to Robins, with Schrick nearly the plate. The Brooklynite, seeing Robins with the ball, tried to slide under Jack, but the Kingston catcher planted the ball on him for the final out.

It was a fitting climax to the opening day at Kingston's new ball park. The field was opened with appropriate ceremonies, the Colonials' band rendered several selections before the game. Mayor Walter P. Crane threw the first ball over the plate.

Bill McAuliffe was on the hill for the Kingston team when the game opened and Ma, had the visitors helpless throughout the time he occupied the mound. Three hits in six innings, two of the scratch variety during the third base line, were all the Brooklynites could collect on McAuliffe's delivery.

With the score 5 to 1 in favor of the Kingston team in the first half of the seventh, Captain Schrick sent "Dutch" Taylor, a local youngster who has been hitting fine ball for the Staegburg Club, in the box. "Dutch" showed all kinds of stuff, but lacked control and at one time got out in the eighth retired in favor of Van Buren.

A streak of wildness on the part of Aserodo, who started the game for the Brooklyn team, gave the Colonials three runs in the first. Moore started off by setting up the first of three, who is no received during the day and went to second on McAuliffe's sacrifice. Fitzgerald also was the recipient of Aserodo's generosity, and stroked on for one. Taylor's short slide in left filled the bases. Seeing the bases all occupied, rather disappointed Aserodo, and he walked Robins and Deegan, forcing in Moore and Fitzgerald. Glaser's short fly was gathered in by West, but Schwab singled to center and sent Corbie home.

When Moore walked to start the fourth, Aserodo also walked. He walked to the bench and was replaced by Jesly. The latter started out well by setting McAuliffe at work, but Moore made his second run on Fitzgerald's hit and Corbie's out.

The Brooklyn team went to pieces in the fifth and four more Colonials runs trickled over the rubber. Feilner started it off by dropping Deegan's drive to his territory, Matty taking second. Glaser, Schwab and Rice followed with hits, which caught the Brooklyn infielders flat-footed. Deegan and Glaser reaching home. Moore kept up his record of "no times at bat" by being hit by a pitched ball, and when McAuliffe singled and Fitzgerald sent a sacrifice hit to left, Schwab and Moore followed with two more markers.

The Majors' only run off McAuliffe came in the sixth. Thompson singled to right as a starter and made the mid-way station on Feilner's sacrifice. A steal of third and West's sacrifice fly sent Thompson across.

Taylor relieved McAuliffe to start the seventh and the youngster's wildness got him into trouble. Schrick, Knoblauch and Bishop each received free transportation. Free going out in the meanwhile on a fly out to Fitzgerald. When Jesly struck out it looked as if Taylor would pull out of the hole, but Glaser threw wild on Thompson's grounder and Schrick and Knoblauch scored. Feilner ended the inning by going out, Glaser to Corbie.

The Brooklyn team scored three more in the eighth. West and Ebberts went to first on four wide ones, and when Schrick crashed out a double to left West and Ebberts reached the rubber. Free and Knoblauch were unable to do anything with Taylor's stable, but Bishop singled and sent Schrick home. When Taylor walked Jesly he was relieved by Van Buren. Dewey stopped the run-making by causing Thompson to pop to Corbie.

Then came the ninth and the nearly already described.
